226 to be graduated at winter commencement

"Our Heritage" will be the topic discussed by Lynn M. Bartlett, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, at the Fourth January Commencement at Eastern Michigan College at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, January 25, in Pease Auditorium.

The faculty and student processions will assemble in the balcony of Pease at 2:30 on that day. Graduates will meet in the north, and faculty, in the south end of the balcony.

Two-hundred-twenty-six degrees will be granted, including 18 Bachelor of Arts degrees, 144 Bachelor of Science degrees, 21 Bachelor of Science in Business Education degrees, one Bachelor of Musical Education degree, and 42 Master of Arts degrees. One of the MA degrees will be the five hundredth by EMC since the independent graduate program started in September, 1953.

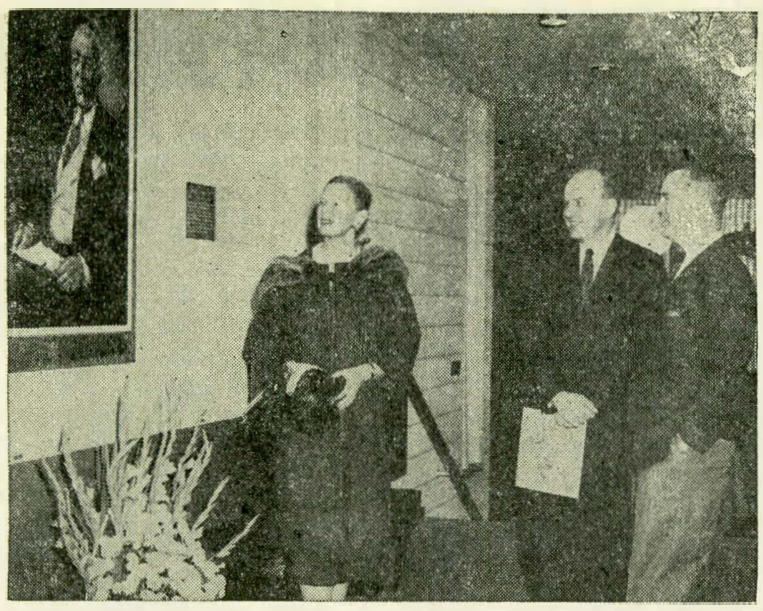
Provisional teaching certificates will be awarded to 136 graduating seniors and eight State Limited Teaching Certificates will be awarded.

Vice President William C. Lawrence will preside at the ceremonies in the absence of Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, President of EMC, who is on the west coast visiting alumni groups.

Dr. Bartlett, the visiting speaker, received his bachelor's master's and doctor's degrees in education from the University of Michigan, with additional graduate work at Columbia and Wayne State Universities. He is now completing his 33rd year in educational work, having taught in rural schools, and having worked in an administrative position in the Grosse Point Public School system.

While at the University of Michigan, Dr. Bartlett served on the faculty and later taught at Eastern Michigan College for a summer session.

For many years Dr. Bartlett has been an active participant with state county and local groups working on legislation for the financing of the schools of Michigan. With the cooperation of International Business Machines, he has developed a system of tabulating census information which has been copied not only in Michigan but throughout the country.



DEDICATION CEREMONIES AT the new Daniel P. Quirk Dramatic Arts Building on the EMC campus last Thursday brought Nancy Quirk Williams, wife of Michigan's governor and daughter of Quirk to Ypsilanti. She took part in the ceremonies with William Work, (center) of EMC's English and Speech Department. James E. Green, vice president and director of planning and development, is shown at right.

'Let's re-theatricalize the theatre,' says Gassner

"May your theater building always be used for theater," was Sterling Professor John Gassner's wish for EMC and the new Daniel L. Quirk, Jr., theater building last Thursday.

Gassner, a well-known author, editor, and critic, spoke on the topic of "re-theatricalizing the theater." Modern drama, he stated, has become modern by getting rid of a good deal of theater in a reaction against romantic drama.

"Most of the world's dramatic masterpieces have been theatrical in form," he added, in criticism of the modern drama which offers the audience a "slice of life." He feels that a great deal of the mediocrity of modern or contemporary plays is the result of turning the theater into a "camera and recorder."

According to Dr. Gassner, "Drama gives us a highly condensed picture of life." True drama is art in that it finds an effective expression and form for an idea, and intensifies experience.

Describing theater as both greater than literature, and lesser, he pointed out that drama cannot remain on the highest levels of literature without losing something. However, he added, "Much of theater lives between the lines as well as in the lines," and the theater cannot be regarded as the "poor cousin" of literature.

He praised college and amateur productions for "retheatricalizing" the theater, and cited the "new free use of space" in some modern productions. However, he stated that very few modern playwrights have acting experience, which used to be considered essential for the successful dramatist.

"Study of theater requires a theater building," Dr. Gassner stressed; and the growth of the theater movement in the United States might make our country less of a dramatic "Sahara," and more theatrical play scripts may result.

Blue books are favors at all-campus dance

The "Pre-Exam Jam," an all-campus dance, will be presented by the All College Social committee at McKenny Hall on Friday, January 23.

Free bluebooks will be passed out at the door, and a door prize will also be awarded, chairman Marge Zizzi announced this week.

The dance will be casual dress and will begin at 9:00 p.m., lasting until midnight.

Cuban girl reports

"Tanks outside our front door"

Maria Martin, a freshman student at Eastern Michigan College has returned to the campus after being detained briefly by the regulations of the rebel forces in Havana.

The young Cuban girl, whose home is in Santa Clara, said that originally anyone could leave the country, but at the close of the holidays when the Castro forces were victorious, even students had to wait to get special permits to leave. It took Miss Martin several days to secure the necessary clearance to fly north.

"I phoned my mother Monday to tell her that I had arrived at the college safely," Miss Martin reported. "She said that everything was quiet in our town now."

But the situation was far from quiet while the Cuban student was at home. "Batista forces planes straffed the street in front of our house, and there were tanks right outside our door," she reported. "Our house is a large one, but it was badly damaged in front by machine gun bullets. We laid on the floor in the rear whenever the fighting got bad."

During the revolution the Martins had a difficult time getting meals since all electricity and water was cut off. With no electricity for refrigeration, what food that was on hand spoiled rapidly in the 78 degree heat. "Mostly we ate bread," Miss Martin recalled, "the gas still worked so bread could be baked."

The EMC student said that

Arab students form new club

Students from Arab nations have organized a new association, the Arab Students Club, on the Eastern Michigan Campus with plans for a full schedule of events.

The group held its first meeting January 13 to elect officers.

"In order to promote better understanding of the widely misunderstood Arab World, and to promote intercultural exchange of ideas, this organization should be invaluable in the circle of campus groups," the club's founding statement said.

"The Arab Students Club will be open to all students on campus and will promote and implement the practice of democratic parliamentary procedure as well as making the whole idea of educational exchange more meaningful through lectures, movies, social activities and communications," said the statement.

The Club also stated that "believing that true understanding of facts between our two great nations will strengthen the ties of

Discuss guidance at campus session

Research into aspects of counseling and guidance were discussed yesterday by the secondary school improvement committee of the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies meeting at McKenny Hall.

Fifteen principals from the Detroit areas as well as representatives from Wayne State University, the University of Michigan and EMC attended the session which was followed by luncheon.

EMC representatives were R. Stanley Gex, Dean of Teacher Education, Kenneth R. Cleeton, Head of the Department of Education, James S. Weeks, Assistant Professor of Education, and Ellis B. Page, Coordinator of Guidance at the College.

many people in her town were homeless. Not too far from where her family lived a 500-pound bomb was dropped by a Batista plane, demolishing a row of five homes and killing a friend of the Martin family. I have always thought it a common courtesy to any lecturer to remain seated quietly until he is finished except in cases of emergency, and in such cases, to leave only at the most appropriate time. I can see a reason for a few exceptions to this, but I can find no reason for over twenty-six students to leave beginning five minutes after the lecture began and continuing throughout the program, especially when time was given before the question and answer period for students with five o'clock appointments to leave. Obviously someone couldn't wait.

Let's review the rules of courtesy in the lecture hall.

Letters to the Editor

Protests dorm closing

To The Editor:

Here we go again, packing up and leaving the dormitories for another week because it is written in the contract. Perhaps part of the reason is that cleaning must be done.

Whatever the reason is, we have to leave the dormitories. This may sound fine to our American friends because they have homes and families here, but how about the students who come from abroad?

They have to look for a place to stay, and this is not easy. It is hard to find a room in which to stay for a very short time.

Would it not be nicer if the staff found a solution to this problem, either by increasing the dormitory fees for those who want to stay during the period between semesters, or by letting the foreign students stay in one dormitory in order to make it easier for the head residents.

Kahtan Bayati

'Lack of courtesy'

To The Editor:

At the dedication ceremonies last week I was horrified at the lack of courtesy shown by some EMC students. Certainly a man of John Gassner's intellect and prestige deserves our complete attention for at least one hour.

Instead, people who were supposed to be taking notes were writing messages to each other continuously while still other students found it necessary to put on their coats and leave.

Cheerleaders reply

To The Editor:

This is in answer to the letter in last week's issue of the Echo signed "Sincerely, A Student." It concerns the statement about the cheerleaders and the Hillsdale game. If "A Student" would check all the different basketball schedules that have come out during the semester she would find that four out of five different schedules showed no game for Wednesday, January 7. It also was not shown on the most recent scheduling, that of the weekly calender.

Another error in the schedule was that of the Central game. It was posted as December 18, but actually was played December 16. If the people who are in charge of posting these schedules would be accurate, perhaps such mix-ups would not occur.

"It seems inconceivable that they could have been busy that night." "A Student" neglects to consider the fact that the EMC Cheerleaders belong to other college organizations and arrange their schedules accordingly. The cheerleaders had only a few hours hours notice that the Hillsdale game was to be played that evening.

In another section of the Echo, it was stated that the fans who attended the Hillsdale game "were the noisiest and most partisan of the season." Who should we believe? Let's get the facts straight!

"There were no cheerleaders to lead the fans and so there was no incentive for the team." Just because the cheerleaders are not present does not mean the rest of the student body cannot show a little school spirit.

We agree, however, with "A Student" on one point. Let's show our team that we are behind them and really want them to win.

Council meeting called off

The regular meeting of the EMC Student Council originally scheduled for next Tuesday, January 27, has been cancelled. SC President Joe Rippetoe made the announcement.

Navy ROC program starts

The Navy has announced the opening of the 1959 Reserve Officer Candidate (ROC) Program in the Ann Arbor area.

Application instructions for college men desiring to become naval officers under the program have been received by Lieutenant Commander Robert L. Shafer, Commanding Officer of Reserve Naval Security Group Division 9-12. All college men who meet the physical requirements and are not beyond their junior year in college may participate.

The ROC program is designed to permit members of the Naval Reserve and civilians who are attending college an opportunity to qualify for appointment as reserve officers in the United States Navy.

Procurement is annual, with final selections being made in April. Applications must be in by February 1, 1959.

Men who apply do not need to be members of a Naval Reserve unit. The program requires the attainment of a college degree plus two eight-week summer training periods on full pay at Newport, Rhode Island. During the school year, candidates receive a full day's pay each week while participating in a local Naval Reserve unit.

Complete information on application procedures, academic and physical requirements is available on Tuesday evenings at Reserve Naval Security Group headquarters in North Hall on the University of Michigan campus. Men interested in applying may contact Commander Shafer at NO 2-2026 in Ann Arbor.

New president named by Geography group

Mary Holland was elected secretary at the Geography Club's membership meeting on January 21.

After new members were installed and after the business meeting was over, Prof. James W. Gallagher delivered an illustrated lecture entitled "Water Ways of Illinois."

All interested students are invited to attend the next meeting which will be held on February 12 in the Strong Auditorium.

Graduate fellowship offered by sorority

Any graduate of an accredited college or university is eligible to apply for a $1500 graduate fellowship for advanced study in the field of Social Service, the EMC chapter of Alpha Xi Delta sorority announced this week.

The fellowship is being awarded through the national philanthropic program of Alpha Xi Delta.

Interested EMC students may obtain application blanks from Rose Gadigian, 413 Buell Hall. Announcement of the successful candidate will be made by the sorority's national council in March.

Unitarian youth to sponsor England conference

An invitation to participate in the Seventh World Festival of Youth to be held in Vienna this summer has been rejected by the Liberal Religious Youth Organization, an organization of young people of the Unitarian and Universalist denominations in the United States and Canada.

Spencer Lavan of Tufts University, the president of the body which has its headquarters in Boston, reported in the Tufts Weekly that at the recent meeting of the LRY Council in New York City the governing body of LRY voted unanimously to turn down an invitation to participate in the Vienna festival.

Lavan reported that the LRY will still send its delegation of 28 college age young people and two advisors to Europe this summer but, he stated, that they had accepted an invitation to attend the annual conference of the Inter-denominational Religious Fellowship which will be held at Barnston, Chesire, England, July 18 to 25. The conference will discuss the topic of "The Role of Religion on Contemporary Society."

Reception greets new members of Stoic Society

More than 50 new members of the EMC Stoic Society were welcomed at a reception in Starkweather Hall on Tuesday, January 13.

President Eugene B. Elliott and the group greeted the newcomers to the campus' oldest honorary scholastic organization with brief talks on the purpose and activities of the society by the officers of the society.

Joyce Phy and Hortencia Trevino were co-chairmen and the members of Stoics acted as hosts and hostesses.

The Stoic Society announces its annual White Elephant sale will be held February 23 and all "white elephants" will be accepted on or before this time.

Army to show films in Ann Arbor monthly

Movies will be shown to the public monthly, beginning February 6, as part of an Army Reserve information program in Ann Arbor.

Announcement of the first program in a series of "Your Movie Dates" was made today by Maj. Charles P. Trickett, area Army Reserve advisor.

The films will be Army released productions similar to those seen on the television hour "The Big Picture," and will be shown free of charge at the U.S. Army Reserve Center at 524 South Main Street.

Inaugurating the series will be the sound picture "The Nuremberg War Trials," and "Alaska."

Intra-squad meet opens track season

The Eastern Michigan track team will stage it's first meet of the year, tonight at 7:30 in Bowen Fieldhouse. This meet will give the Huron fans the first look at this season's warriors.

The contest will be an intra-squad affair with a green team and a white team pitted against each other. In the annual event will be some of the returning lettermen and host of new prospects. As of Monday night the members of two squads had not been chosen, but, as usual the teams are expected to be evenly matched.

Among the veterans expected to compete are: Jim Robinson in the pole vault, Mauri Jormakka in the half-mile, and Al Day in the shot put. Also running will be Hayes Jones, who will handle the high and low hurdles along with the 100 yard dash.

The new Indians who hope to carry the Huron banner this year are: dashmen Richard Bone and ECHO sports writer Bob Quick; Tom Bleakley in the mile; Bay Campbell in the quarter-mile; and Charles Elmquist, shot putter. The man to watch among the new cindermen is Don Taylor, a half-miler with a lot of promise.

EMC 'out-recruited' lose to Central, 32-5

by Bob Quick

Saturday, January 17, the EMC grapplers were soundly defeated by a strong Central Michigan squad 32-5. Coach Russell Bush took partial blame for the defeat in that the Eastern matmen got a little tired toward the end of their matches, thus pointing to a lack of conditioning.

Bush added that Sam Holloway did a beautiful job. He said, "Sam looked the best Friday that he has looked at Eastern in his entire wrestling career." In describing Holloway, Bush claimed that, "He is just like a cat, agile, shifty, and agressive, taking advantage of every break."

The Ann Arbor News was quoted as saying that "Central had a well-groomed crew of wrestlers," upon hearing this Bush claimed that this merely was twisting the facts. "Well-recruited" would be a better term, retorted Bush. The Eastern mentor felt that at least four, if not more, of the Chippewa wrestlers were the product of Central's high-pressure recruiting system. In summing up his feelings, Bush said, "I don't mind losing to a better coached team, but when I lose to a recruiting program I feel bad about it."

The Huron grapplers' next tilt is with the Eastern Illinois University Panthers, this Friday afternoon. EMC is forced to forfeit 15 points before the match begins due to the fact that Eastern has no wrestlers in three weight classes. The only change will be Tony Papalas, wrestling in the 147 pound class.

Meet the Hurons

by Paul Will

Mel Rasmusson

Now a junior, Mel is one of the key men on the Eastern Michigan wrestling team. Last year he earned the IIAC heavy-weight championship. The 235 pound wrestler can boast of being pinned only once in five years.

Before coming to Eastern, Mel wrestled on the Hazel Park High team for four years and was ranked third in the state when he graduated.

Mel stated that in the last few years wrestling has grown enormously in popularity and feels it will catch on at EMC. The Eastern wrestler, who is a geography major, plans to teach and coach wrestling after graduation.

Mauri Jormakka

One of the more familiar sights on campus this blond 24 year-old track star who, although only a freshman, has already shown his speed and versatility. Among his many accomplishments is the recent setting of a new cross country record in his first year of competition.

When asked which race he felt was the most exciting for him Mauri remarked, "In last year's meet with Central Michigan I ran against Ed VanderHevuel; it was close all the way, but near the finish I was able to pull ahead and win."

Mauri, with three years of teaching experience, intends to continue teaching upon graduation; he is also a geography major.

Down Court

Basketball team 'revitalizes' self takes two of three games from Salukis, Panthers, and Britons

by Jerry Levin

Eastern Michigan, in two of its most impressive performances of the season, met Southern Illinois and Eastern Illinois on successive days last weekend. The revitalized Hurons fell before the Southern contingent by the score of 87-77, then came back to upset Eastern Illinois on the next night by a 79-65 count.

The Salukis of Southern, who are admittedly one of the best teams that Eastern will take the court against this season, were surprised by a team not ready to "lie down and play dead" after last year's 124-60 drubbing. The Huron cagers came out quickly and took command. At one time they moved to an eight point lead. With 2 minutes and 26 seconds left to play in the first half, however, the Salukis evened the score at 36-36. The score seesawed back and forth until with 4 seconds remaining Charlie Ruggles intercepted a pass and drove in for two points to give Southern a 42-40 half time edge.

In the second half, Huron fans were treated to a first hand view of the heralded Southern fast break and phenomenal shooting. At one time the Southern lead exceeded 20 points. Through this the dogged determination of the Huron Cagers never ceased. At the final buzzer the Southern lead was narrowed to 10 points.

Losing none of the glitter of the night before, EMC returned to swarm all over Eastern Illinois on Saturday. Gaining their first conference victory in almost two years, the Hurons featured a well-balanced attack. Tom Mac Kenzie hit for twenty points to lead the Hurons. Ron Gulyas, the high scorer in the Southern game, was second with 17; following him was Fred Ireland with 13, who had his best weekend since the beginning of the season; Rod Treais counted for 12, Frank Manley's 11, Hutchinson's 4, and Crickmore's 2 rounded out the scoring for E.M.C.

With the sweet taste of conference victory still fresh in the mouths of the Eastern "hard-courters," Albion's Britons arrived to do battle on Tuesday evening.

This time it was captain Charlie Crickmore and Frank Manley who provided the winning punch with 16 points apiece leading EMC to a 60-55 victory. The Albion game was, except for a few minutes, entirely controlled by Eastern. This win gives the Hurons a 6-7 record on the season.

If you're the kind of person who thinks for yourself . . . you use judgment in your choice of cigarettes, as in everything else. Men and women who think for themselves usually smoke VICEROY. Their reason? Best in the world. They know that only VICEROY has a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste.

If you checked (A) on three out of the first four questions, and (B) on four out of the last five . . . you really think for yourself!*
